

NEWS RELEASE

The Scottish Criminal Cases Review Commission ('the Commission') has today referred the case of James Rough to the High Court of Justiciary.

In accordance with the Commission's statutory obligations, a statement of reasons for its decision has been sent to the High Court, Mr. Millar's solicitors and Crown Office. The Commission has no power under its founding statute to make copies of its statements of reasons available to the public. Brief summaries of the background of the case, the evidence led at the trial, and the Commission's reason for referral are given below.

These summaries are for information purposes only and the content of this news release should not be treated as forming part of the Commission's statement of reasons.

1.0 Background

1.1 Mr Rough was convicted at Perth Sheriff Court on 17 April 2008 of a contravention of section 49C(1)(a) of the Criminal Law (Consolidation) (Scotland) Act 1995 (the possession of an offensive weapon) and assault to injury; and was sentenced, after discount, to four months' imprisonment for the possession of an offensive weapon, to run consecutively to a sentence of five and a half months imprisonment for the assault.

2.0 Reason for Referral

2.1 The basis of this referral is that the Commission believes that the initial starting points selected for the sentences to be imposed may have resulted in a miscarriage of justice.

3.0 Notes for Editors

3.1 The Scottish Criminal Cases Review Commission was established as an independent body on 1 April 1999 to review alleged miscarriages of justice in Scottish convictions and/or sentences. Under section 194A–L of the Criminal Procedure (Scotland) Act 1995, as inserted by section 25 of the Crime and Punishment (Scotland) Act 1997, the Commission may refer a case to the High Court if it believes that a miscarriage of justice may have occurred and that it is in the interests of justice that a reference should be made. Once the Commission refers a case to the High Court, the case will proceed as a normal appeal.

3.2 The Commission operates with a Board of nine Members (one of whom is the Chairperson), a Chief Executive, a Director of Corporate Services, two Senior Legal Officers, five Legal Officers and administrative support staff.

3.3 The Commission has reviewed its policy on disclosure and, from 1 April 2008, it has or will disclose the fact that a case has been referred to the High Court, and has or will provide a short summary of the reasons for this. However, as the Commission operates under statutory non-disclosure provisions, it is not considered appropriate for the Commission to disclose any additional information about such cases. The Commission will not release any information about cases in which no referral has been made or in respect of cases under review.
